

I'm not a robot

DeviationUpload your creations for people to see, favourite, and share.DreamUpTurn your dreams into realityGenerate your own AI work.Status UpdateTell the community what's on your mind. JournalShare your thoughts, experiences, and stories behind the art.LiteratureUpload stories, poems, character descriptions & more. SubscriptionFund your creativity by creating subscription tiers.Page 2ELiteratureRecently, I've been playing with 3D models of bones. Here I want to explore three possible configurations for the bones of a human body with 4 arms (+ a bonus with 6 arms at the end). Each configuration has its own description, discussing the advantages/disadvantages in terms of functionality/mobility and aesthetics. Of course, there are many alternative ways the extra arms could be implemented. In my case, I begin with the normal human skeleton as a base and I try to see how the extra arms could be integrated with as few changes as possible to the skeleton, because I want them to resemble more to normal humans. For example, I want to avoid stuff like an elongated torso to accommodate the new arms, or extra clavicles to support arms, etc... In my configurations, I focus all the changes on the scapula (the flat shoulder bone), which is enough to accommodate the extra arms. I consider only the bones though, without accounting for the muscles (discussed briefly at the end), ligaments Who is, Eric Stanton?.Eric Stanton is one of our favourite artists, and a lot of our Fetish and Female Domination images are inspired by his work. We are also very lucky to own an original by him, received as payment for a very hard commission for an Author he worked with, that we simply wouldnt have taken on without an original piece of his art as payment.Im sure a lot of the readers of this post already know who he is, but for those who are new to his art, a little information below.Stanton was an American underground cartoonist and fetish art pioneer and while Stanton began his career as a bondage fantasy artist for Irving Klaw, the majority of his later work depicted gender role reversal and proto-feminist female dominance scenarios. His bondage fantasy chapter serials earned him underground fame.Stanton also worked with pioneering underground fetish art publishers, Leonard Burtman, the notorious Times Square publisher Edward Mishkin, paperback publisher Stanley Malkin, and later magazine publisher George W. Mavety. For a decade, Stanton also shared a working studio with Marvel Comics legend Steve Ditko.Past the soft-core era of the 1960s, his art became more transgressive. Creating a mail-order business in the 1970s named the "Stanton Archives," Stanton sold his work directly to fans and, starting in 1982, issued offset staple-bound fan-inspired books known as "Stantoons," producing more than a hundred by the time of his death.In his lifetime, Stanton also contributed to countless underground publications and later adult magazines like Leg Show and Leg World. In 1984, Stanton had the only art exhibit in his lifetime at the New York City nightclub, Danceteria. Artists Banksy, Allen Jones and Madonna, among others, took inspiration from Stanton's work.An example of his work is below from his story "Masterful Maid" first published in 1966, as you can imagine this was dangerous stuff to certain elements of Society at that time. Only two years later Star Treks Captain James T Kirk kissing Lt Uhura wasnt broadcast in America and other parts of the world, as there was a fear an "Intercial" kiss would cause an outrage.God knows then, what they would have made of the image below. We love it though, and have a couple of pieces in our featured gallery, directly inspired by it...A couple our takes on this piece can be found below:Below is a Redux of another of his pieces we created for a Commission Friends:@catting321 @Yellnut101 (BF)@Eo66 @jaredzilla01 @KeiFoxpaw @PawzzzB333 @CosmicFirey I take inspiration from many peoplePaddington, Turning Red, the Mario movie, Godzilla franchisePleasant Goat and the Big Big Wolf, Don't Hug Me I'm Scared, Ben 10, TMNT.Favourite Bands / Musical ArtistsMinecraft, Roblox, Pokemon, Plants vs ZombieFavourite Gaming PlatformThis is here if you wanna show support to me in other ways! Every donation is appreciated, thank youuuu