Now you all know that I have something to do. So it shouldn't be a surprise that I chose to use the burlap to give this project a fun farmhouse ride. Don't you love Burlap? Try the Deco mesh like this garland Candy reindeer candleicle, or started from scratch with a form of crown and adorned with Faux Fin and Antler for a look that will take you from fall to winter. How to make a Candy Dog Wreath Supplies needed to make a crown of Candy Stick: Make sure you have all your supplies at your fingertips so you don't be looking for them in your project. I speak from experience. Dÿ™, you can start Candy wreath with white or red. I chose to start with white. Cut a length of floral thread and put it through the end of the whip ribbon as shown below. Then gather the burlap and twist. Anchor the rustling end to the crown shape of Candy stick. I started long. To create loops, push the tape upwards through the bottom and create a bubble in each of the three openings. Then twist the tape of the ribbon on the lower side of the frame, and send another ring through. The size of the bubbles are completely up to you, however, the larger bubbles will take ribbon more. One time the opposite side, twist the tape several times on the back before climbing through the first hole again. The torsion helps to ensure that the tape faces Puled out. Now we want the strips to go to a corner so as not to go out again through the first hole. For the second jute ribbon race, we will pass only through the last two holes leaving the first empty hole. Now we will have to go back through the last hole to create a corner. This will happen so that there is a bubble in the first opening, two in the second and three in the third. However, you don't want to pass through the third opening one second time without securing the ribbon. Use another piece of floral wire to secure the tape before going through the opening with another bubble. Note: 194; This must be done only for this first race and for the last one! Now we have a strip of white! Leave the roll of the tape attached and not cut. Add the red ribbon with floral thread in the same way you did the white above. This time, however, it will be created three bubbles in each of the openings. Because we created a corner with white lines, after it will also be angled. Continue by putting a tape bubble in every opening through the Garlanda form. Turn the ribbon multifunction several times, continue through the first opening, and create the next line. Repeat until you have a color strip that is three wide bubbles. Remember not to cut the tape after each line. When you are ready for the next color, just rotate it a couple of times on the back of the garland and take it up through your next opening. You will continue to repeat this process for the entire form of crown of candied fruit. Note: 194; If two ribbon coils must be joined, use a piece of floral thread to tie them together and then tie it to the garland module. When you arrive at the end of the garland, cut the jute ribbon and use the floral thread to secure it to the garland. The last color strip will also be at a corner and you will have to do to your first color strip above. Once all lita bubbles have been created, the crown is ready to hang on the main main dooreverywhere in your home. You'll like this cane sugar crown and pull it out year after year. complete without this adorable candy. Hang it at the door or at your house for a nice addition to the holiday. Candy metal rod crown of frames Red burlap bow (10 yards is plentiful)lute white tape (10 yards is plentiful)Start the crown of sugar sticks with white or red. I chose to start with white. Cut a length of floral wire and put it through the end of the tape. Then collect the gag and turn. Anchor the end of the fruit in the form of a candied garland. I started at the end of the form. Come from the back side of the form to and create a bubble in each of the three openings. The size of your bubbles are completely on you, however, the larger bubbles will take more tape. Once you reach the opposite side, rotate the tape several times on the back before you climb through the first hole again. Since we're creating strips at a corner, we won't be able to go up through the first hole again. For the second stroke of jute tape, we will pass only through the last two holes leaving the first blank hole. Now we're gonna have to go through the last hole to create a corner. This will happen so that there is ain the first opening, two in the second and three in the third. However, you should go. the third opening one second at a time without securing the multifunction bar. Use another piece of flower wire to secure the tape before passing through the opening with another bubble. This has to be done only for this first race and the last! Now we have a white streak! Leave the tape roll on and do not cut. Add the red ribbon with flower thread in the same way as you made the white one above. This time, however, three bubbles will be created in each of the openings. Why? © We have created a corner with white lines, after it will also be in the corner. Continue by placing a tape bubble in each opening through the garland form. Turn the multifunction bar several times, continue again through the first opening, and create the next line. Repeat until © You don't have a black strip that is three large bubbles. Remember not to cut the tape after each line. When you are ready for the next color, just rotate it a couple of times on the back of the garland and bring it up through your next opening. You will continue to repeat this process for the entire form of chandelier crown. When you reach the end of the garland, cut the jute tape and use the flower thread to secure it to the garland. The last color strip will also be at a corner and you will have to make it similar to your first color strip above. NOTE: If you need to combine two reels of tape, use a piece of flower wire to tie them together and then tie it to the garland module. Join us to show your work! Work!
